

Conjunctions, linking words and expressions

Introduction

As I have a lot of work to do before the summer holidays, I don't have time to attend the seminar and neither do my colleagues.

Definition

These words and expressions have different meanings and uses but they can all be used as conjunctions.

Construction

These are usually placed at the beginning of a sentence or in the middle of a sentence to introduce a clause. For example:

In order to increase productivity, we're opening a new plant.
We're opening a new plant in order to increase productivity.

Instead of employing more people, we should work longer hours for a few weeks.
We should work longer hours for a few weeks instead of employing more people.

Depending on the expression, it can be followed by, for example, a noun or gerund, a bare infinitive or a subject and verb.

Yet

Note that

1. In everyday conversation, we are more likely to use common words and expressions with a similar meaning such as 'but'.
2. We sometimes use yet in short phrases with two adjectives:

This device is simple yet effective.
Our boss is strict yet fair.

Neither, nor, so

Note that these are also often used as responses to say that a situation is the same as that of another person. Here are some examples:

'to be'	Auxiliary verbs	Other verbs
---------	-----------------	-------------

"I'm hungry." "So am I." ["Me too."]	"Carine should be on the team." "So should Armelle."	"I love chocolate." "So do I." ["Me too."]
"Philippe was late." "So was Bertrand."	"I've read this book." "So have I." ["Me too."]	"David went to the exhibition." "So did Keira."
"I'm not sure." "Neither/nor am I." ["Me neither."/"Nor me."]	"I can't help her with that." "Neither/nor can I." ["Me neither."/"Nor me."]	"He doesn't want to go out to lunch." "Neither/nor do we."
"I wasn't working on that project last year." "Neither/nor was I." ["Me neither."/"Nor me."]	"This computer mustn't be used today." "Neither/nor must this one."	"I don't understand this." "Neither/nor do I." ["Me neither."/"Nor me."]

Note that we can say "Me too" when agreeing with a positive statement.
We can also say "Me neither" or "Nor me" when agreeing with a negative statement.

Thanks to, owing to, due to

Owing to and due to are more formal and less conversational than 'because of'.

Thanks to is used to talk about the reason for a positive result:

I've learned a lot in this job, thanks to my colleagues.
I'm better at speaking English now, thanks to spending so much time in London.

It is often used with 'it' + 'be':

It's thanks to you and your support that I got this job.

Or in a sarcastic way to blame someone or something:

We missed the train thanks to your driving!
Thanks to the weather, we had to postpone the barbecue again!

'Once' or 'when'?

Sometimes, once is used in the same way as when:

I'll help you once/when I've finished.

Once/when the contract was signed, we had to employ three more specialists.

But it is not interchangeable with when - we only use once when there is a suggestion of as soon as or 'from a certain moment'.

I was happy when I was young.

I was happy once I was young.

When

'When' has some other, more specific uses:

Use	Examples
To mean 'just at that moment' - there is a suggestion of suddenness	I was just getting ready to leave the office when the phone rang.
To mean 'considering that'	There's no point writing a letter when it's so much quicker to email.
To mean 'whereas'	I've got to work late tonight to finish this when I had plenty of time to do it last week.

Examples

As we all have other work to do, let's stop now and carry on tomorrow.

Since I live in a city, I'm used to a lot of traffic and noise.

He was nervous yet excited.

I'm afraid there's no more pork. Neither do we have fish on the menu today.

Arnaud made a speech at the wedding and so did his father.

The meeting went on for four hours, thanks to Julia and all her questions!

Once I'd found somewhere to live in the city, I was able to start looking for a job.

My boss wants me to do all these routine tasks when I could be doing something much more useful.

Word order

The conjunctions and, but, or, because and so are usually placed in the middle of a sentence but can also be used to begin a sentence, especially in informal writing:

It's very quiet in the office at the moment because so many people are on holiday.
Because so many people are on holiday, it's very quiet in the office at the moment.

With and, but, or and so, there is a sense of a pause before emphasising something:

We need to find new premises. And we need to employ two new managers!
It's a serious problem. But, don't worry - I think I have a solution.
We could invite everyone to the meeting. Or maybe we should limit it to team leaders.
It's getting nearer to the deadline. So, let's work hard to get it finished.

Examples

The meeting went on for four hours, thanks to Julia and all her questions!

Once I'd found somewhere to live in the city, I was able to start looking for a job.

My boss wants me to do all these routine tasks when I could be doing something much more useful.

Connectors

The situation is very serious. The client is putting us under pressure to finish sooner than agreed. Furthermore, the project is already over budget.

These connectors form a link between ideas in two sentences:

We did extremely well last year. However, there is still a lot of work to be done.

They are different from conjunctions which link two parts of one sentence:

We did extremely well last year but there's still a lot of work to be done.

They are usually placed at the beginning of a sentence followed by a comma but they can also go in the middle or at the end of the second sentence.

We did extremely well last year. There is, however, still a lot of work to be done.
We did extremely well last year. There is still a lot of work to be done, however.

In this way, the connector is like a non-defining relative clause - if we remove it, the sentence still has a clear meaning.

For these reasons, the following structures are incorrect:

We did extremely well last year however there is still a lot of work to be done. ✖
We did extremely well last year, however there is still a lot of work to be done. ✖
