Note that

1. We only say 'o'clock' with whole hours when there are no minutes:
5 o'clock

half past 5 o'clock ❌
twenty to 4 o'clock ❌

2. We never say or write '13 o'clock' or 'half past seventeen' etc.

When talking about timetables or schedules, we may say:

eighteen hundred - 18:00 eighteen 'o' five - 18:05

This is also used by military personnel who say:

eighteen hundred hours - 18:00 'o' eight hundred hours - 08:00

All these expressions are very rare in everyday conversation.

Examples

"What time is it?" "It's five o'clock."

"It's five past twelve."

"What's your number?" "My office number is 0151 456778 and my mobile is 07719 345221."

"And your address?"

"15 Church Street, Liverpool, L11DA."

"My flight number is EZY3456. It lands at 12:05. We can have lunch before the meeting at three."

"Here are your keys. You have room numbers 345 and 346 on the third floor. Enjoy your stay."

"We have fifty people in our Tokyo office and about a hundred in Europe."
